If you're interested in creative writing, poetry, performance or spoken word, then this traineeship is for you.

The Foundling Museum in Bloomsbury is looking to recruit 15 care-experienced young people for our Tracing Our Tales paid training and mentoring programme, inspired by our story of care.

Workshops will concentrate on three areas: creative writing, performance and employment skills.

Trainees must be aged 18-29 and based in one of the London boroughs. Participants will receive a fee of £45 for each session attended.
